

A large, curved mural depicting a historical scene of people, likely soldiers or laborers, working on a rocky, hilly terrain. The scene is framed by a blue border with yellow decorative elements. The mural shows a group of men in traditional attire, some on horseback and some on foot, engaged in various activities. In the foreground, a man is seated on a low stool, holding a large, shallow bowl. To his right, another man is standing, holding a long staff or pole. In the background, a group of men are gathered around a large, shallow bowl, possibly washing or sorting items. The terrain is rocky and hilly, with sparse vegetation. The overall scene suggests a moment of rest or preparation during a journey or campaign.
