ANZAC Day

by Konstantinos Zachos

ANZAC Day is a very important day in Australia and New Zealand.

ANZAC stands for Australian New Zealand Army Corpse. On this day we remember all the brave Australians and New Zealanders who died on the shores of Gallipoli during World War I. Every ANZAC day there is a gathering at war memorials, red poppies are handed out and there is a minute of silence.

Every year on November 17th we remember the "Polytechneio" in 1967-1973. Yesterday we did a show and pupils took part in it. The children in our school sang and said poems. They put on short plays about 1967-1973. We watched videos and we listened to the choir. The choir sang the songs. It is great!

Good eating habits

by Daniel Roulis

In our school we have good and bad eating habits. A good eating habit is a sandwich or a toast. A bad eating habit is a pizza. We mustn't eat it, because our teeth will be black. We have a lot of good habits outside our school. For example: yoghurt, milk, orange juice, fish, fruits, vegetables, bread, spaghetti, cheese, beans, rice, soups, salads and water. The bad eating habits are: hot dogs, chips, eggs, pizzas, coke, cakes, chocolate, pop corn and beer. Yuck! I hate it because it is very bad.
