

When I found out that I will participate in the erasmus program I was very excited and I was very anxious for the trip. During our visit in England, I had the change to discover how is the daily life for an English student. I found out how they spent their time and I had details for their school, the projects and activities they have there. While I was talking with English students, I realized that they had much different way spending their free time that we are in Greece. For example, after school we have to study and go to sport or other activities. The English students spent their free time by helping their families to the fields and having much time with pets and farm animals. I will always remember this trip because I had the change to learn many things about the English culture and because I had a really good time with the Greek team.

Maria Morari