

VERONICA: A GIRL THAT ROSE FROM THE DEAD

It was late at night; the street was empty and it was raining heavily. Suddenly, you hear a strange whisper – like noise and a little, black-haired girl appeared at the end of the road. She had a bloody night gown on, and she seemed to be holding something that looked like a teddy bear. She whispered: “Help”. Terrified, you try approaching her, but the second you looked at her, she was gone!

You see her again, knocking on a door. Her clothes were clean this time, and she was smiling. The people at the house opened the door and the girl got inside. After about 5 minutes, you run to the door, knocking. You ask “Have you seen a...slightly scary little girl?”. “Well, yes, but she vanished and we don’t know where she might be”, they answered.

You go back home tired and scared. But you feel kinda...odd. You feel like someone or something is watching you even though you live alone. You look out of the window, and you see the little girl’s face flashing.

You did some research about her, and it turns out she was brutally murdered by the man that kidnapped her. The girl’s name was Veronica, and she was 10 when she died. Her last words were: “I’ll be back”. Who knows if you ‘ll encounter her ever again...
