

ADVERBS OF SEQUENCE

Name:..... Date:.....

Mr. Bean makes a sandwich

• Before viewing

Why is a sandwich called a sandwich?

An eighteenth century aristocrat, the Earl of Sandwich, loved playing cards. He used to play cards all day and night and hated having to stop for his meals. One day he thought of a way of putting meat between two slices of bread. In this way he could eat using one hand while playing cards with the other. The other players, when asked by their valets what they wanted to eat, began answering: "The same as Sandwich." That's how people began calling sandwiches that way.

• After viewing

Match the actions and the tools. Then put them in the correct order and finally, use that information to complete the summary.

Mr. Bean...

___ washes the lettuce	with his shoe
___ spreads butter	in a hot water bottle
___ cuts 2 slices of bread	in his sock
___ makes some tea	in his sandwich
___ dries the lettuce	with a pair of scissors
___ crushes the peppercorns	with his credit card
___ kills two fish and puts them	in a drinking fountain

➤ USE: FIRST/SECOND/THEN/NEXT/AFTER THAT/FINALLY

Bean goes to the park to have a lunch break. He sits on a bench next to a man having a fish sandwich and makes himself a similar sandwich in a really ridiculous way.

_____, he cuts
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....