As a useability expert, you are asked to evaluate the interface of e-shop (use scenario: navigate through the website to buy 20W speakers and a TV for €600-€800). Discuss with your partner to highlight 2 advantages & 2 disadvantages of the interface and provide your recommendations in terms of usability and efficiency. [During your discussion, Steve may ask something. After discussing it with your partner, one of you may respond to him.]

Do the vertical tabs connect to the Fitts' law we've discussed in class? How?

- (15:36:12) Nick: yes
- (15:36:13) Johana: misplaced by the designer
- (15:36:28) Nick: I agree you are not able to locate them easily.
- (15:36:41) Johana: I think they are really bad
- (15:36:48) Johana: look at their positioning
- (15:37:35) Nick: Zero visibility for the user who cannot even check those filters until he clicks on this strange button.
- (15:38:10) Johana: there is a false affordance here since you cannot know for sure if this icon is a button or just a non-clickable decorative graphic
- (15:38:42) Nick: Maybe adding a label (using a higher contrast font) and altering this icon/button could improve this part. Let's keep this in mind for later.
- (15:38:50) Johana: ok
- (15:38:59) Johana: What about these non-horizontal weird tabs? arggg 😡
- (15:39:12) Nick: what about them
- (15:39:22) Nick: lol

Rich text editor toolbar with buttons for bold (b), italic (i), underline (u), URL, Image, color selection (grey, yellow, orange, pink, blue, cyan, green), and various emojis and icons.

Text input field for the chat message.
