Dangers for teenagers

Social Media constitutes a piece of our casual life. Social Media holds a particularly important role in our life. There are also many dangers that we have to know.

1.Cyber Bullying constitutes one of the biggest dangers. It is a type of bullying,which happens online. The abuser can offend and attack while he is behind his keyboard.

2.There are plenty of fake profiles from abusers who would like to have access to your personal data without having their ID revealed.

3.Also, there are many cases of fraud. Someone can be fooled easily and give online his personal telephone number, simply by taking part in a competition.

Electronic Gambling

With the term Electronic Gambling we mean the activity in which two or more persons hang out in internet with a purpose to bet. An activity like this could lead to economical loss.

One of the basic problems of gambling is the gain of money. A gambler may lose his money, his house, his/her property and even his/her wife. Many are the addicted people who can't stop believe that in the next round they will get their money back which in the majority of the cases is just pure imagination.

So besides wasting a lot of money they do waste a lot of their time whether it's free time or labour time. The easy access to gambling sites may involve both kids and teenagers to such activities that are illegal at least to these age categories.

Where it can happen

- In websites especially manufactured for electronic gambling.
- Through spam messages which invite the users to play in electronic casino, engage them in sports betting etc.

Addiction

Addiction in internet can be caused if people spend many hours in online activities such as games.

A people is addicted when he has:

1. reduced functionality either physical or mental. Such people usually neglect their personal health, eat unhealthy meals, stop their favorite hobbies, drop out of school, have strong conflicts at home with their parents, or have a lot of tension and anger that even leads to violence.
2. used the Internet for a longer period of time than intended.
3. spent too much time on internet related activities.

Spam messages

Spam is considered to be a message which under normal circumstances users would not choose to see and which is distributed to a large number of recipients. Examples of spam are messages containing advertisements for dubious products, messages with content related to pseudo-gambling, fake services, pornographic material, etc. Receiving chain messages is also a very common phenomenon.

Spam Messages

These messages are usually spam and the sender asks the recipient to forward the message to other people they know. The danger here is that every time we forward a message, if we're not careful, along with it comes the email address of all the previous people who forwarded the same message. So we don't know who will receive the message and what they will do with the email addresses, which will appear in it.
