

The Sea of frozen yoghurt

Written by the pupils of the sixth grade (ΣΤ2)
19th Primary School of Thessaloniki

Once upon a time there was a policeman living in a small town called Tutti Frutti.

It was an old town with houses with gardens and trees full of candies. The city was famous for its sea of frozen yoghurt.

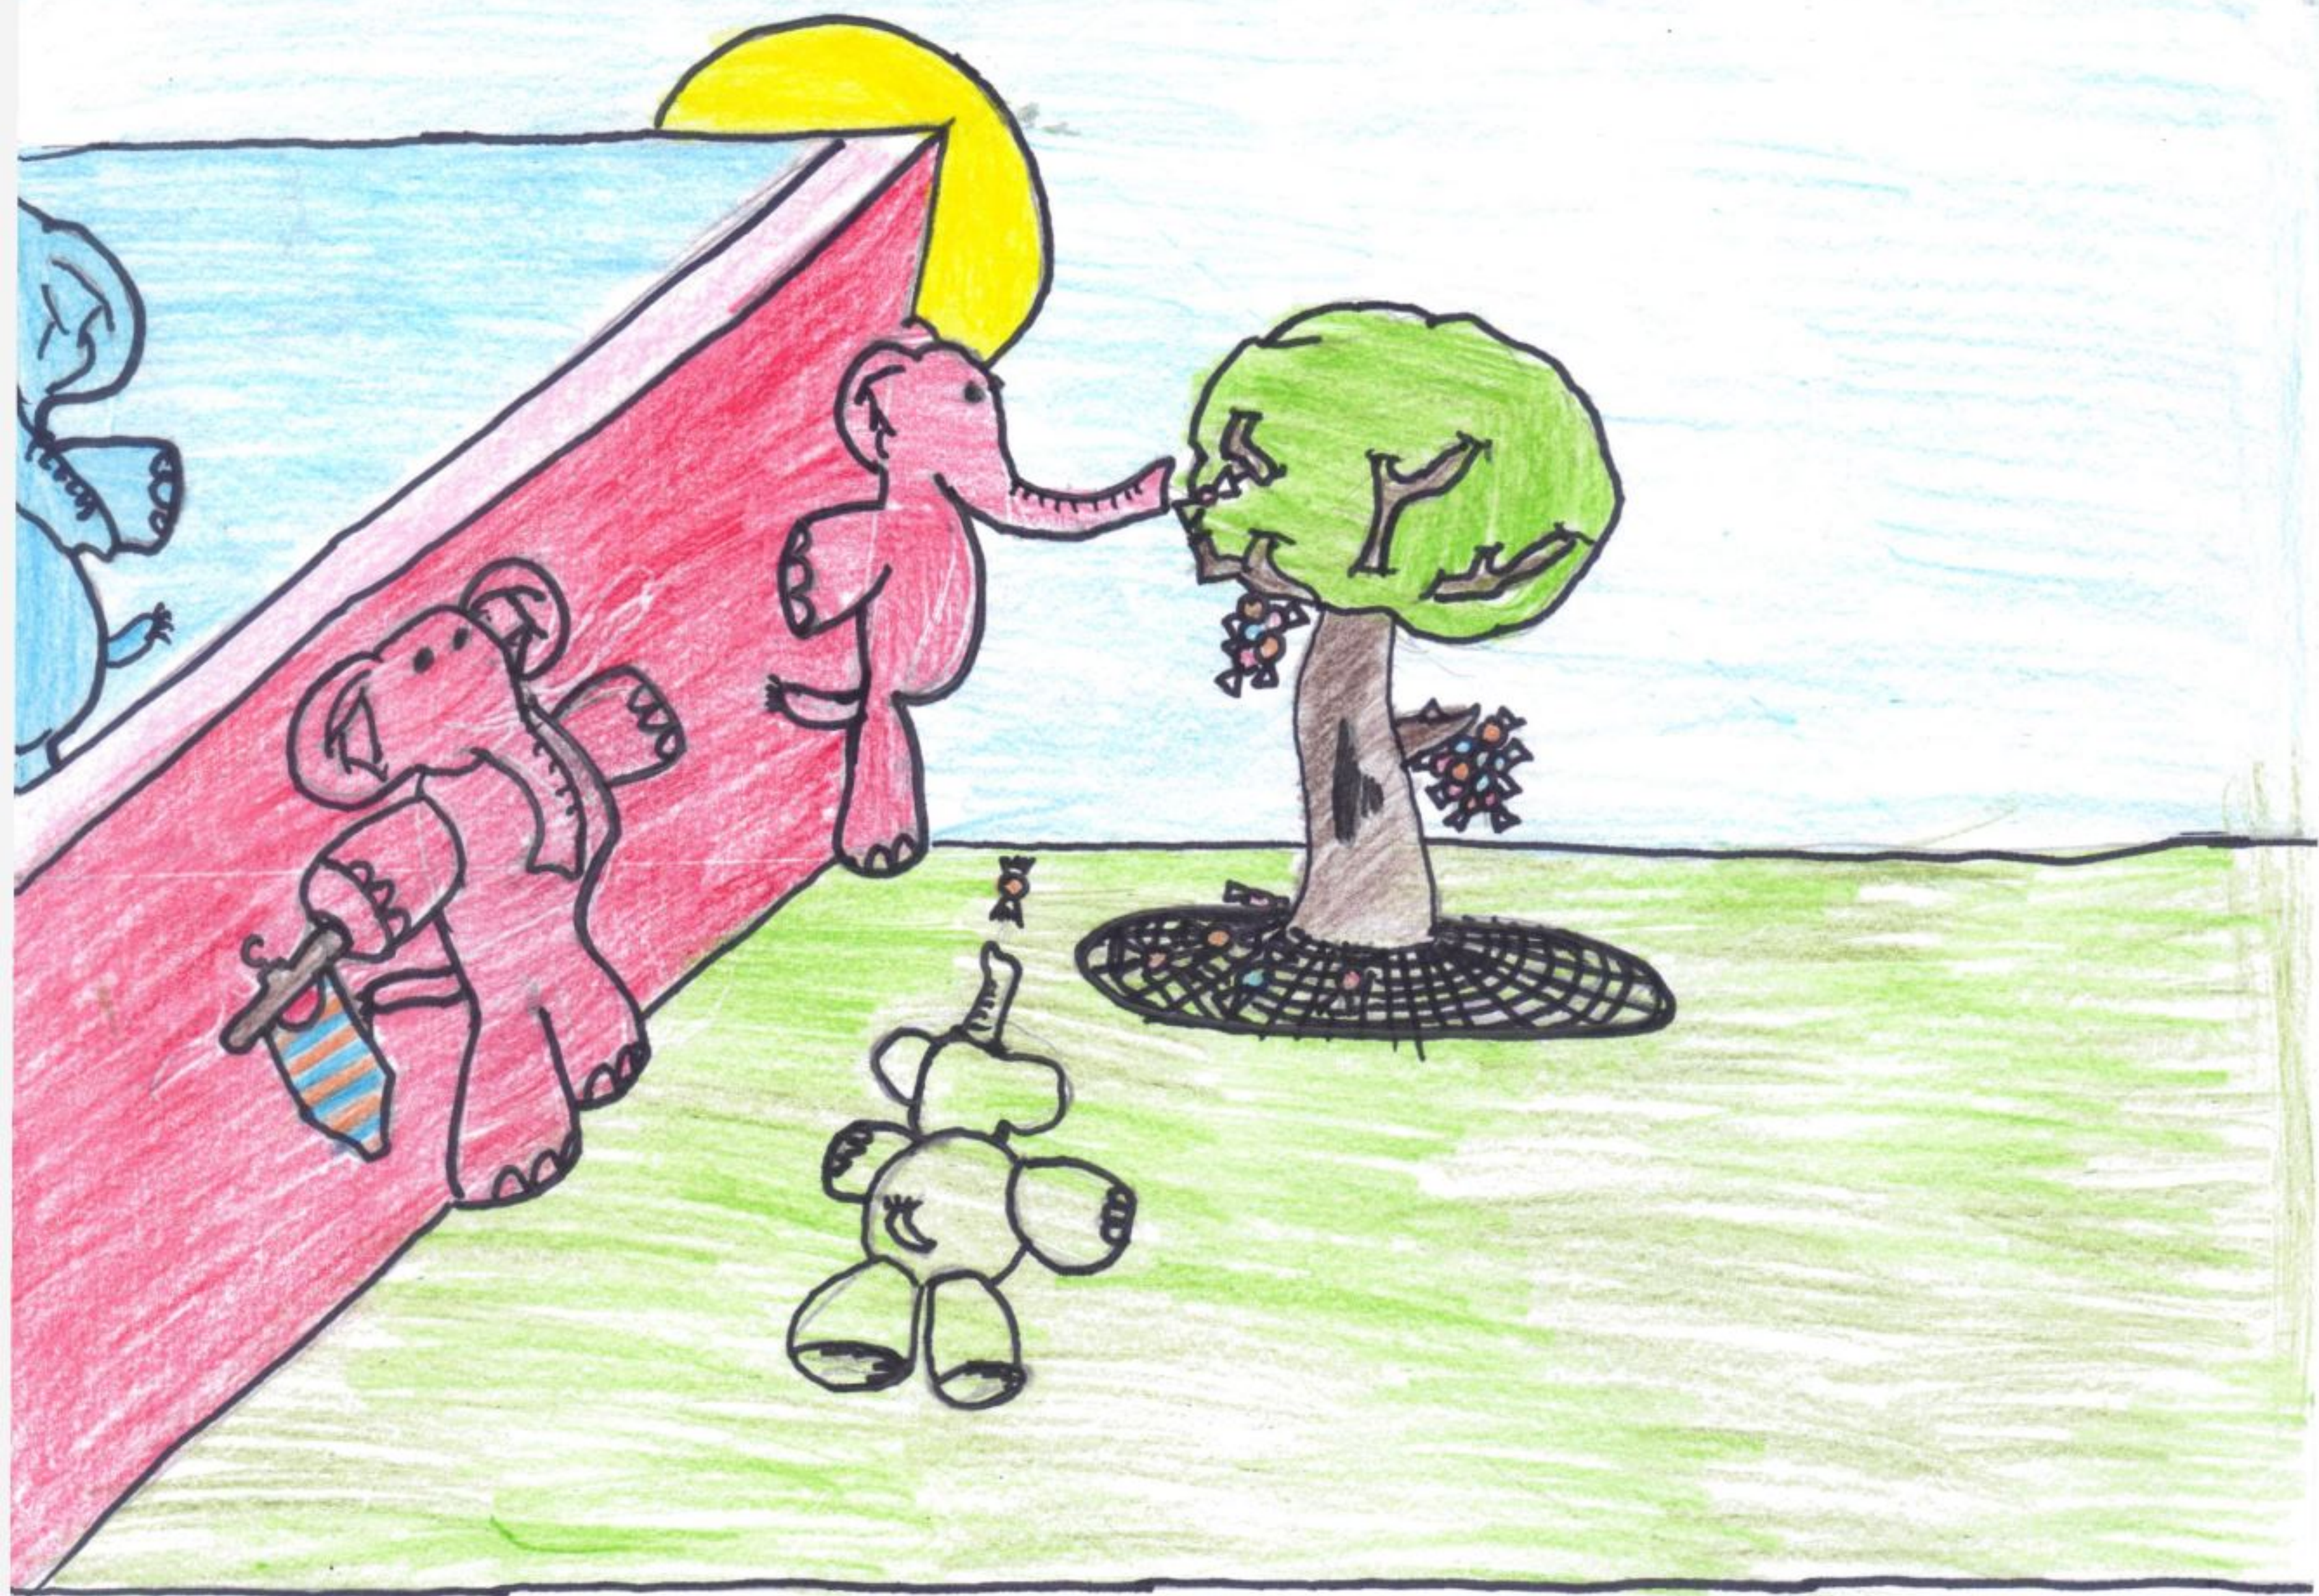

The people of this city loved animals, especially elephants. They all had elephant pets. The problem was that they ate the candies of the trees.

When the elephants ate these candies, their body changed colours, all the colours of the rainbow: red, blue, purple, pink, orange, yellow with green spots.

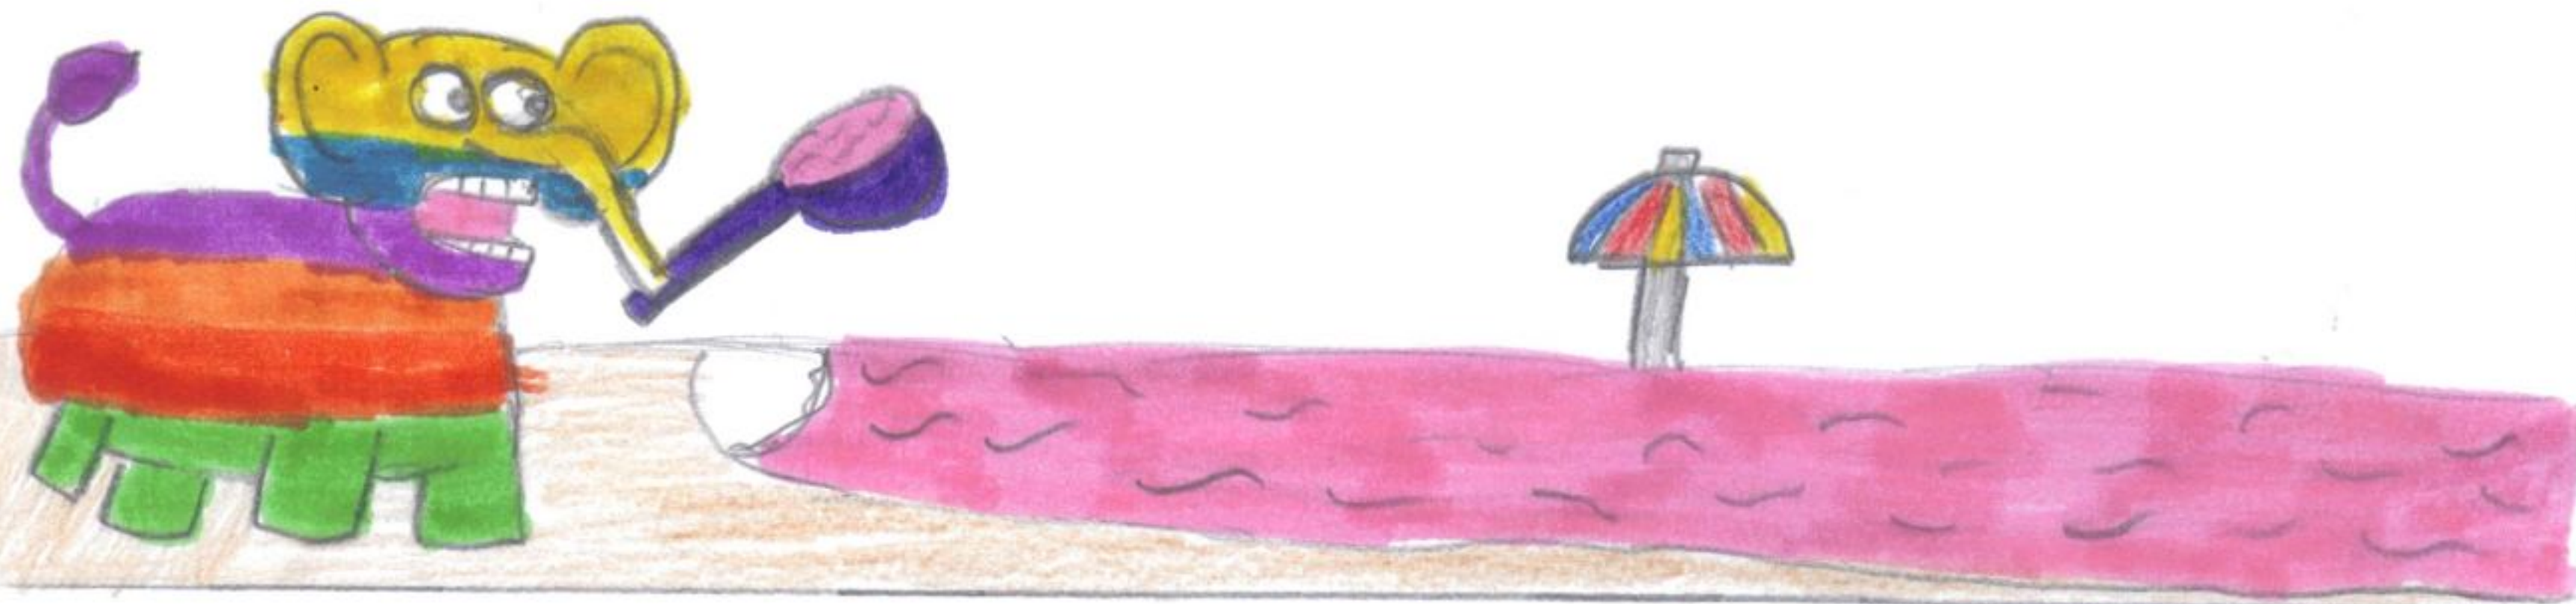

Because of that the policeman was very busy. He had to stop the elephants because their colour changed like the walls. It was not easy to see where the elephants were.

So he took an assistant - an elephant from the town next door called Frutti Tutti. "The people of Tutti Frutti are very sad." said the policeman, "It's our job to stop the elephants!".

The elephants got so fat that they wanted to go on a diet! How can they wear their swimsuits at the sea of frozen yoghurt? They will look terrible! They decided to eat only paper plates because they don't have any fat and have less calories.

So an elephant had a great idea – really clever! He used a magic plate to surf in the sea of frozen yoghurt. “Let me taste this yoghurt. Yummy! It tastes delicious!”, said the elephant. He was greedy and ate half of the sea.

When the policeman and his assistant saw this, they felt panic. What a tragedy! They said to the people of Tutti Frutti "Stop the elephants! They mustn't eat the yoghurt!". The people decided to take a spoon to beat the elephants.

When they went to the sea, they tasted the yoghurt. "Oh, my God! It's really tasty", said an old man licking his lips. Slurp! Yummy! The yoghurt was so fantastic that the people ate all of it.

The sea was gone! The treasure of Tutti Frutti was destroyed. The city fell in economical crisis because the tourists didn't come to the town to visit the sea.

The President of Tutti Frutti got mad and he fired the policeman and his assistant. They lost their jobs because they destroyed the town. So they thought to go to Frutti Tutti and find a new job.

ZOO PARK

But his assistant had another great idea. They opened a zoo with the colourful elephants which now were thinner and wore their swimsuits. All the tourists all over the world wanted to visit the zoo.

The policeman and his assistant became businessman and business elephant and very very rich. The elephants were happy to be the stars of the zoo and the people of Tutti Frutti were on all the newspapers and magazines. So they all lived happily ever after.

The End