THE DREAM: BY PABLO PICASSO

- Le Rêve (English: The Dream) is a 1932 oil on canvas painting (130 × 97 by Pablo Picasso, then 50 years old, portraying his 22-year-old mistress Marie-Thérèse Walter)
  - It belongs to Picasso's period of distorted depictions, with its oversimplified outlines and contrasted colors resembling early cubism. (Cubism is an early-20th-century avant-garde art movement that revolutionized European painting and sculpture, and inspired related movements in music, literature and architecture. In Cubist artwork, objects are analyzed instead of depicting objects from a single viewpoint, the artist depicts the subject from a multitude of viewpoints to represent the subject in a greater context)

- It is considered the most expensive artwork as on 26 March 2013, the painting was sold in a private sale for $155 million
  - The painting belongs to Picasso's period of distorted works, incorporating oversimplified outlines and contrasted colors; resembling early Fauvism. This particular work is renowned for its blatant (προφανή) eroticism
