The crossword puzzle grid consists of the following structure of empty cells:

- A horizontal row of 8 cells.
- A vertical column of 4 cells, starting from the 3rd cell of the horizontal row.
- A vertical column of 5 cells, starting from the 5th cell of the horizontal row.

Small illustrations are placed on the grid as follows:

- A girl in a tsolia is on top of the 5th cell of the vertical column.
- A fario hat is on top of the 3rd cell of the vertical column.
- A pair of tsarouchi shoes is to the left of the 2nd cell of the horizontal row.
