How it works

Welcome to our town!

By Theodore L., Konstantinos B.
& Artemis L.

Patras is the third largest city in Greece and the capital of Western Greece. It is located in northwestern Peloponnese and has a population of about 250,000 people. It is an important port that connects Greece with Italy. The city is also famous for its large Mediterranean Carnival, the Rio–Antirrio Bridge, its universities and higher education institutions.

Patras is a beautiful seaside city that combines the mountains and the sea, old and modern elements. The city is full of important historical sights and places of interest that are worth visiting at least once in your life.

A trip to Patras can also include nearby destinations such as Kalavryta, Nafplio, Ancient Olympia, and Delphi, as well as many options for fun activities.
